The student will identify and compare skills of two workers (jobs) in their community.

Lesson Formative Assessment (acceptable evidence):

Assessment should relate to the performance outcome for goals, objectives and GLSs.

Assessment can be question answer, performance activity, etc.

The student will illustrate the roles, responsibilities, and skills of community members and write a paragraph that summarizes the importance of those roles, responsibilities, and skills.

Lesson PreparationEssential Questions:

How do a person's skills impact his/her roles and responsibilities in the community?

Engagement (Hook):

Show the map of the businesses in the local community.

Note: The definition of community will depend upon your local area and the mobility of families, e.g., rural community may require families to travel to businesses and shopping areas in different parts of the county while families in a suburban area may be able to do business and shop in their town and urban families may rely on public transportation for mobility.

ProceduresInstructor Procedures/Instructional Strategies:

1. Post the map where all students can see it. Tell the students that they will be investigating what the people do when they go to work in the community. "Today, we are going to start by thinking of all the workers we can in our local community." As the students brainstorm the list of possible workers, record them on the map.
2. Guide the students to think about the roles of community workers. "Let's choose one of these people to talk about for a little bit.

Student Involvement/Instructional Activities:

1. Students verbally brainstorm the businesses in the local community. Some possible answers include: grocery store clerk, gas station attendant, chef, food server, police officer, fire fighter, hair stylist, physician, nurse, postal worker.
2. Students respond that the role of the police officer is to keep people safe and to maintain order in the community.

What is the role of the police officer?" <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 3. Guide students to think about the responsibilities of community workers. "Let's continue to talk about the police officer. What are the responsibilities of a police officer?" 4. The counselor then says, "Let's think about what would happen if we did not have police officers working in the community. Would we be able to get along without someone doing the work?" Relate to the importance of all workers doing their jobs and doing them well. Note: Two important concepts are emerging as a part of students' enduring understanding: 1--The importance of all work and 2--The importance of all workers doing their jobs responsibly. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 5. Hand out Activity Sheet: What Adults Do At Work: Information Gathering Notebook Demonstrate for students how to put notebook together (see activity sheet). 6. Close lesson by asking students to investigate the work people do in the community. Introduce the idea of taking notes by asking them to write words in their information gathering notebooks about the workers they see. Tell students that you will be anxious to learn from their investigations and information gathering and will be eager to see their notes during the next lesson. Ask several to tell you what they will be doing between now and their next guidance lesson. 	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 3. Students respond with the police officer's responsibilities. 4. Students respond with their ideas. 5. Students will construct their information gathering notebooks. 6. Students will volunteer and identify at least one community worker about whom they will make notes to remember important ideas.
